

RUNS DOWN A BOY; RACES WITH HIM TO A HOSPITAL

Policeman Sounds Horn as Chauffeur Speeds Auto
Through Brooklyn Streets.

Michael Nigro, eight years old, of No. 33 East Second street, Brooklyn, on his way to school today was run down by an automobile while crossing Fort Hamilton avenue. He became confused at the approach of the car and dodged back and forth. The front wheel of the auto passed over his body.

The chauffeur, William Poswell of No. 11 Stuyvesant avenue, Brooklyn, employed by John P. Zerega, a macaroni manufacturer in Front street, who resides at No. 81 Willow Place, Columbia Heights, stopped the machine and picked up the wounded lad, still clutching his school books in his hand. Policeman James Carey ordered that the boy be taken to the King's County Hospital.

Then began a mad race against death. The chauffeur gave the car full speed, while the policeman sounded the horn. Corners were turned on two wheels and all other street traffic got out of the way of the racing motor and its little victim.

At the hospital Dr. Cummings said that Michael's skull was fractured and that he was also suffering from internal injuries. His death is expected.

Policeman Carey summoned the chauffeur to the Flatbush Court to determine the responsibility for the accident. Poswell had taken the Zerega children to school at Bay Ridge and was returning when he struck Michael Nigro. He says the machine was being run at moderate speed as shown by the fact that he stopped it after the front wheel had passed over the boy and before the rear wheels came in contact with his body.

SHE CAN'T TELL HER NAME.

Officials of the Ocean Home for Women, No. 48 Concord street, Brooklyn, are anxious to learn the identity of an aged and well dressed woman who was turned over to them last Saturday night by the police. She was found in Furman street.

The woman says she is eighty-seven years old, but is unable to tell her name or address. She says she lived in Brooklyn with her son until Saturday, when his wife put her out. She also said that she has two sons, one a poultry dealer in Washington Market and the other in County No. 1, N. Y. Investigators have been unable to locate them.

She has white hair and was neatly dressed in black.
